How to use WONDER

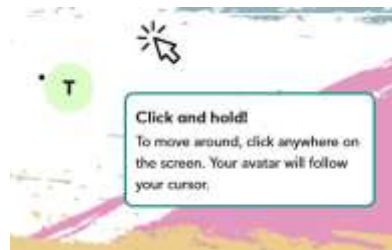

How does wonder work?

Wonder is like a physical space, but digital. Every person is represented by a small avatar. By clicking or dragging your mouse around this digital space you will move around the room. When your avatar gets close to someone else's avatar, a video chat will open. More people nearby? The video chat includes more members.

You can see other people move around the room and when they are talking to each other. You cannot hear or see their conversation unless you join their group, which we refer to as a "circle".

How do I move around the room?

Click anywhere in the room with your mouse and hold the click down.

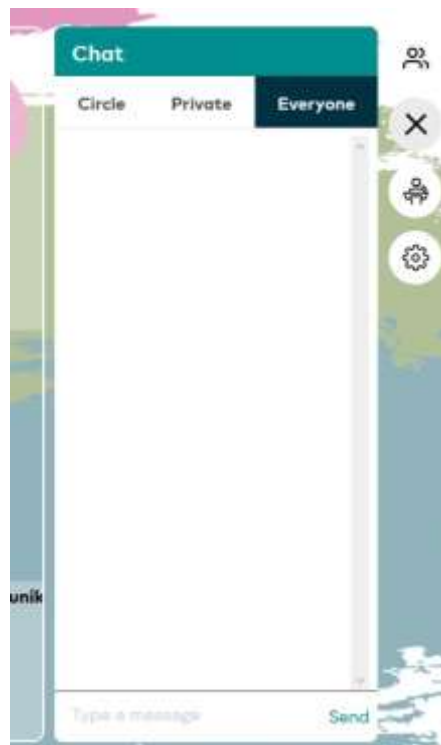

Can I write messages to other guests in the room?

Yes! Wonder has a chat system in which you can easily message the entire room, circle, or private messages by clicking the "chat bubble".

How do I talk to other guests?

Move your avatar to a coloured circle and join an audio conversation! You can also send text- messages to communicate with individual guests, your current circle, or the entire room. Every user who joins a circle with greater than 5 participants is automatically muted. A message can be seen when you are speaking on mute.

How many guests can speak in one conversation group (circle)?

One circle can hold 15 participants.

Can I turn off video and audio?

Turn off your camera by clicking the camera icon on the center bottom of your screen. By other members, you will be seen with a black screen with your avatar picture seen. Mute yourself with the microphone icon found at the bottom center of your screen.

What data does Wonder store?

Wonder does not have access to any of your audio or video data.
